THE UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA STAFF BULLETIN

EDMONTON, ALBERTA

JULY 19, 1973

RESEARCHERS HAVE FIELD DAY

This summer, as in years past, the research staff in the Department of Plant Science have transferred their fruit trees, ornamental plants, cereals, and other special crops to a number of outdoor plot areas managed by the University. Many of the young plants had spent the winter in the protected environment of the University greenhouses; other were brought back from plots near the east shore of the Gulf of California in northern Mexico. They are now growing at the Parkland and Ellerslie Farms, Kinsella Ranch, and at various crop projects throughout the province. Some of the research being conducted will be featured July 25 at the Plant Science Field Day, held annually at the Edmonton Research Station, Parkland Farm.

The department's horiculture research group (W. T. ANDREW, R. H. KNOWLES, and E. W. TOOP) specializes in ornamental plants, turf grasses, fruit trees, vegetable and greenhouse crops. Experiments which can be seen at Parkland Farm include adaptability tests of lilies, tulips, peonies, chrysanthemums, potatoes, tomatoes, and more than 150 different varieties of turf grasses. Cultivar tests of all the common vegetable and fruit crops are also grown, and management studies are being conducted to determine the optimum systems of handling these crops.

Plant breeding programs aimed at producing improved varieties of crops are being conducted by K. G. BRIGGS (barley and feedwheat), Z. P. KONDRA (rapeseed and special crops), and P. D. WALTON (forages). These programs can be seen in the field, along with studies of management practices for existing varieties. Of particular interest to farmers are the tests of potential new University of Alberta varieties of rapeseed and barley, and the yield tests of annual forages. Extensive tests of the new class of Canadian wheat known as Utility Wheat (feedwheat) will also be on display. Varieties from programs such as this may soon make possible a major new export for Canadian agriculture, in the world feedgrain market.

N. COLOTELO, C. HIRUKI, and W. P. SKOROPAD will be showing experiments relating to the existence and control of diseases on crop plants, particularly rapeseed and barley.

W. H. VANDEN BORN will show studies on the chemical control of various weeds in the major Alberta field crops, and will also describe the general research functions of the Plant Science department.

The Field Day program opens to the public Wednesday, July 25 at 10 a.m. at the Parkland Farm, 68 Avenue and 116 Street. Illustrated talks in the morning will be followed by field tours of Parkland and Ellerslie in the afternoon. Lunch will be available at the farm.

Under the direction of researchers in the Department of Plant Science, students hired for the summer learn the fine art of making barley crosses. This and other projects may be viewed by the public at Plant Science Field Day, Wednesday, July 25 at Parkland Farm.

LIBRARY CONDUCTS SURVEY ON RETURN OF BOOKS

The University Library has recently conducted a study of the return of books on loan. The study was based on nearly half a million loan transactions, or 491,580 to be precise. Of these loans, 382,795, or 78 percent, were returned on or before the date due. On the first day overdue, 39,370 more, or another 8 percent, came back to the Library; on the second day, 16,609, or 3.4 percent; on the third day, 9,748, or 2 percent. Thus, within three days of being overdue 91 percent of books were returned. Books still overdue were returned daily in decreasing numbers so that by the end of the tenth day all but 4 percent were back in the Library.

THE LIBRARY MOVE

On July 17, the final stage of the book move into Rutherford II got underway with the F section moving from the second floor of Cameron to the fourth floor of the new building.

While the contractor was setting up the new stacks in Rutherford, the moving crew worked on the expansion of the Medical Sciences collection into the north wing of Cameron Library. The Medical Sciences move is not yet completed as there will be some rearrangement of the Reference section at a later date.

EXTENSION COURSES

The Department of Extension is sponsoring a three-day field study program for teachers and leaders of children's groups who wish to improve their skills and knowledge in outdoor education. It will be held August 1, 2, and 3, and will be led by MRS. JOY FINLAY, naturalist and outdoor consultant to elementary and outdoor leadership programs in Edmonton. Skills concerned with the interpretation of nature's ecological relationships will be demonstrated in the park areas along the Saskatchewan River; information lectures will be given, and prescribed source books assigned. ### SEASON TICKETS FOR THEATRE 3

Theatre 3, under the artistic direction of MARK SCHOENBERG, Associate Professor of Drama, will be offering four plays in the 1973-74 season. Because of rising union rates, theatres across the country will be forced to raise their prices next season, and Next season the plays will be presented in the theatre of the Centennial Library in Sir Winston Churchill Square.

August 29 has been declared Edmonton Symphony Day at the Races. It will be a gala affair for patrons who will partake of a black tie, champagne, strawberries, and hot dogs evening that will include fine entertainment between the races and a raffle for a race horse named "Pierre Hetu." Tickets will cost $50 per person ($35 of which is tax deductible).
